

EFFICIENCY OF COURTS IS SLOTTED BAR ASSOCIATION

Colorado Lawyers and Jurists Gather in Annual Convention and Hear Addresses on Reform Legal Procedure—Eminent Judges Talk—65 Members Admitted.
Reports by Various Committees.

Reform in court procedure to facilitate the preparation and hearing of cases, and the general expedition of justice, was the slogan of committee reports and addresses by eminent jurists at the fifteenth annual meeting of the Bar association, which began yesterday morning and will conclude this afternoon. More than 100 members, both lawyers and judges, are in attendance from all parts of the state. The meetings are being held at the Broadmoor casino and at the Antlers hotel in this city.

The annual address by President Henry C. Hall, of this city, was the feature of the morning session at the Antlers yesterday, the election of new members following.

Thomas Ward, Jr., of Denver, talked on "Criminal Procedure," at the afternoon meeting, which was held at the casino, an informal discussion following. Reports of various committees were submitted.

The annual address to the association, "The Municipal Court of Chicago," was given at the annual dinner in the Antlers last night by Harry Olson, chief justice of that court. Judge Julian W. Mack of the United States commerce court, and for years judge of the juvenile court at Chicago, gave an informal talk to the members at the dinner.

Reports Submitted.
The reports of various committees were submitted and adopted yesterday, with the exception of that on law reform, which will be discussed and acted on today. H. N. Haynes of Greeley is chairman of this committee. This report recommends many changes in court procedure. It suggests that the courts be prohibited by statute from entering summary judgments based on cognovit or sweeping powers of attorney in promissory notes, etc.; that in view of judgments and decrees, the bills of exception should be shortened; that in certain cases there may be certified for decision of the supreme court certain questions of law, together with a condensed statement as to specific findings of fact whenever the trial judge is in doubt concerning the proper rule of law applicable; that a bill be drafted whereby a trial court shall be required in cases tried without a jury, whenever either litigant so requests, to make specific findings on questions of fact and law as may be formulated by either counsel.

The committee expressed the fear that because of the lack of confidence of the American people in their judges, the difficulties in the way of investing trial judges with full power in criminal cases, such as that given English judges, is perhaps insurmountable. It called attention to the fact that in England judges for more than two centuries have been appointed for the most part for life or during good behavior, and that they have received compensation to insure the appointment to judicial station of eminent leaders of the bar rather than men of political activity.

Criminal Practice.
Regarding criminal practice the committee said:
"The committee is well aware of the fact that the number of convictions in this country is not in proper ratio to the number of crimes."
"American juries are more lenient to persons charged with crime than in most other civilizations. In homicide cases, particularly, more latitude is given to the American bar to appeal to emotion, passion and prejudice or

HALL POINTS OUT FLAWS LEGAL SYSTEM AND SUGGESTS REMEDIES

President H. C. Hall, in his annual address to the Colorado Bar association, yesterday morning, spoke comprehensively of the red tape in the present legal procedure, and compared the lagging wheels of justice in the United States with the swift procedure in England. He urged that eminent leaders of the bar, with salaries commensurate with their great importance to society, be placed on the bench. Present problems in Colorado also were taken up by Mr. Hall.

Initiatory Measures.
Regarding initiatory measures, he said:
"There have been no statutory changes in the state during the year, as the general assembly has not been in session and no initiatory or referendary measures have during that period been put to vote. But we are advised that some thirty-three different measures are to be voted upon at the coming November election, seven referred by the legislature itself, including the Moffat tunnel bill, seven referred by petition and the rest initiated by petition under the recent constitutional amendment. Newspaper advertisement of these measures as that amendment requires will cost, it is said, over three hundred thousand dollars, and the ballot will be, it is said, some nine feet long.

Whether this deluge be ascribed to the bursting of a legislative dam, bitterness at all events is the result, for which the people, thirsted, or to manipulation of the mudvalves with a view to saving the dam, or merely to a slaughter from disturbed areas of superior class at all events the flood is upon us and we cannot take to the hills. It is not enough to decry or denounce. It will not do to hold aloof. Those who cared to vote on the question have carried the initiative and referendum amendment. It is part of the constitution of this state. Whether we like it or not, it is there. We must deal with the 33 consequences

HENRY C. HALL,
President Colorado Bar Association, which this year flow from its adoption, including the proposed initiative and referendum, and the misnamed recall of judges, and the misnamed recall of judges.

CHARGE BUSINESS MAN IS SMUGGLER

Federal Authorities Expect to Arrest Prominent Frisco Merchant

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—As the result of investigations conducted here and at Los Angeles, United States custom officials believe they have learned the identity of men who for years have been smuggling thousands of contraband Chinese into the United States. The probe is being conducted under the supervision of United States Commissioner Krull and is supplemented by a written confession made by "Jolly" Gerald, at Los Angeles.

The federal authorities say a prominent merchant of San Francisco is implicated and that they expect to place him under arrest within a few days. Two Chinese of Oakland, who are said to have been agents of the smugglers, are in the federal prison and it was at their hearing today that important new facts in the investigation were brought to light. Merchants of Los Angeles and San Diego also are implicated, it is said.

Federal officials have believed for the past year that Chinese were being brought in by a closely organized smuggling ring. It is believed that fully 3,000 Chinese have been brought in each year.

THOUSANDS PAY TRIBUTE TO MRS. SARAH DECKER

Simple Funeral Services for Leader
Colorado Women—High Officials Attend

DENVER, July 12.—Thousands of persons paid tribute to Mrs. Sarah Decker today at the body of the former suffragist leader and president of the National Federation of Women's clubs lay in state at St. John's cathedral before the simple funeral services and interment this afternoon. Officers and past officers of the Denver Woman's club formed a guard of honor for the body as it was viewed by the public.

The simple Episcopal ritual was followed by the Rt. Rev. H. Martin Hart, who conducted the funeral services at the cathedral. There was no eulogy. Interment was then held at Fairmount cemetery, where the leader of Colorado women was laid to her last rest in the presence of high officials of city and state and many grieving friends.

CHAFIN AND WATKINS ON FIRST BALLOT

National Prohibition Party Heads Ticket With Former Standard Bearers

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—The National Prohibition convention concluded its labors here tonight with the nomination of the party standard bearers of four years ago—Eugene W. Chafin of Arizona, for president, and Aaron S. Watkins of Ohio, for vice president. In each case the nomination was made by acclamation after a single ballot had indicated the preference of the delegates.

Four candidates for president were placed in nomination against Mr. Chafin. They were: F. W. Emerson of California; Finley C. Hendrickson of Maryland; Aaron S. Watkins of Ohio; and Andrew J. Houston of Texas. Each in turn withdrew his name after the first ballot.

The leading candidates against Mr. Watkins for vice president were Mr. Emerson of California and George E. Stockwell of New York. Mr. Chafin, addressing the convention, promised not to stand for a third nomination.

No Change in Name.
Because of a rush to adopt the plan to change the name of the party was not taken up for general discussion. A. J. Orem of Massachusetts, in a brief speech, promised to pledge more money to the campaign fund should the name be changed.
"I believe we could make the campaign doubly effective if we should adopt a new name," said Mr. Orem. "We would be greatly aided in carrying our banner to success if we should adopt the name 'Progressive.'"
There were shouts of protest to this as well as to the name "Conservative party," suggested by the Rev. S. H. Taft of California.

EXPOSITION COMMISSION REPORTS GREAT SUCCESS

NEW YORK, July 12.—W. T. Seaton and Theodore Hargis, chairman and executive officer, respectively, of the commission extraordinary to Europe for the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco returned today on the Lusitania.
They said their mission, which was personally to support President Taft's invitation to the governments of Europe to participate in the exposition and to create European interest in it, had been successful far beyond expectations.
In England and every country of importance they met with encouragement, and received assurances from the governments and from manufacturers that extensive exhibits would be made.

SUDDEN HEART ATTACK FATAL

WILLIAM B. CLARK DIES
15 MINUTES LATER

Had Lived in Springs Nearly 20 Years; Well Known for Many Philanthropies.

Stricken suddenly by a heart attack shortly before 8 o'clock last night, while reading a book at his home, 19 West Boulder street, William B. Clark, well known in this city, died about 15 minutes afterward. He was 55 years old, and had lived in Colorado Springs for nearly 20 years, coming here from Boston. He was a bachelor and a brother, a prominent physician of Detroit, Mich., is the only known relative. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Although he was not engaged in business here, Mr. Clark was widely known by reason of his many philanthropies. Coming from a prominent Boston family, he was active in business life, and later became moderately wealthy through an inheritance. He moved to Colorado Springs, primarily for his health, he spent most of his time helping the needy and friendless. Mr. Clark was a warm friend of the Bar Nursery, the Boys club and kindred organizations, and it is said that he lent thousands of dollars to young men and boys so that they could secure an education. This money he used as a fund, placing sums here and there, where it would do the most good, as he was repaid by former beneficiaries.

The dumb animals, too, found a friend in Mr. Clark. Every homeless dog or cat that came to his attention was given food and shelter, and numerous animals were cared for at the Clark home.

Mr. Clark was well educated and had traveled extensively. He took many trips, his last long trip being to the Orient about two years ago, and he came home with many remarkable pieces of art for his collection, one of the best in the city. He was fond of literature and music, and possessed a valuable and comprehensive library. Horseback riding was one of his favorite diversions.

About three weeks ago Mr. Clark sustained a broken leg in a fall, and was just recovering when stricken fatally.

LETS DOWN BARS TO UNDESIRABLE CLASS

Ruling Allows Any Minor Foreign-born Child of Naturalized Citizens to Enter United States.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—All bars restricting the admission to the United States of minor foreign-born children of naturalized citizens, whether imbeciles, idiots or other forbidden classes, were swept away today by a far-reaching interpretation of the immigration and naturalization laws by Secretary Nagel.

The secretary authorized the entry into this country from Russia of little Ilia, 11-year-old, Rivka Polakov, who has been held at Ellis Island, New York, for several weeks, threatened with deportation on the certificate of surgeons that she is an imbecile. Granting that she is an imbecile, the secretary held that the immigration laws were not applicable to her because her father, Jacob Polakov, of New Haven, is naturalized.

This decision completely overturned the previous policy of the government.

Stewart Answers McDonald on Republicanism—Progressives gives Statement

PHILIP F. Stewart returned last night from Denver, where a meeting of the committee of seven, appointed by the Progressives at the recent Antlers hotel conference, was held. When shown the statement attributed to State Chairman McDonald, to the effect that Republicans will be denied participation in the councils of the party and primaries unless they swear fealty to the entire ticket, he said:
"I cannot comment on that, because I have no definite knowledge that he made the statement attributed to him. If the Republicans of Colorado, this fall, however, are compelled to make oath that they will not scratch their ticket as a token that they are Republicans, it might be a difficult matter to procure a sufficient number of that character to sit as judges of election to test other people."

"The statement issued by the committee of seven speaks for itself, and indicates the progress made so far."

Following is the statement referred to:

Hon. Jesse F. McDonald, Chairman

VOTE IN LORIMER CASE IS DELAYED

Accused Senator Spends So Much Time Attacking Kern
Adjournment Necessary

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The senate failed again today to vote on the Lee resolution, to declare vacant the seat of William Lorimer of Illinois.
Consideration for Senator Lorimer, who held the floor for five hours, speaking in his own defense, ended at 4:10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

An attempt will be made to reach a vote tomorrow, by a bitter attack on Senator Kern, which threatened possible infection of arguments by Senator La Follette or others may prolong the debate into next week. Mr. Lorimer charged Senator Kern with misstating the facts, with "slandering and smearing over the records," and with making charges against Lorimer, for which there was no ground of fact or evidence.

Mr. Lorimer issued a direct challenge to Senator Kern to "point to anything in his private, financial, commercial or political life, where he, Lorimer, had been guilty of wrong doing." He placed himself to resign, "relieve the senate of the embarrassment of a vote," walk from the senate chamber, never to return, if Senator Kern "made good."

Believe Kern Will Answer.

The Indiana senator was absent from the chamber during the Lorimer attack, as were Senators Lee and Kern, against whom Mr. Lorimer had also been denouncing during his speech. When Senator Kern returned, later, to the chamber, the impression spread that he would answer Senator Lorimer before the final vote is taken.

The evidence upon which Lorimer's expulsion from the senate is demanded was taken up in detail by the accused senator. He reviewed the cases of the "four confessions," as he termed them, upon which alleged confessions to which he received money at Springfield, Ill., much of the case against him had been built. Charles A. White, he said, was an acknowledged perjurer, while he declared that Beckmeyer, Link and Holstlaw, the other three, had never confessed to being paid anything for voting for Lorimer.

Mr. Lorimer said that the proceeding against Beckmeyer in Cook county had been intended to disclose corruption in the Illinois legislature, but to destroy Lorimer. He said Beckmeyer never said anything about "Lorimer money" until subjected to the "third degree," a process also inflicted upon Holstlaw.

CONCORDIA, KAN., WAS HOTTEST PLACE U. S.

Temperature There 104 Degrees. Cooling Showers Fall in Eastern Sections

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The hottest place in the country today, Concordia, Kan., where the mercury climbed to 104. The entire central west exceeded 100. The 100 mark was reached at Wichita, Kan., and the temperature fell only two degrees short of that in Omaha, Fort Worth, Tex., and Fort Smith, Ark.

There was discomfort throughout most of the country except in the northwest, New England and the middle Atlantic states, where cooler weather prevailed. The weather bureau gave no assurance of relief for Saturday or Sunday. There were local thunder storms today in the Atlantic and east gulf states, but they did little to temper the heat.

SHOWERS HELP EASTERN CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, July 12.—Cooling showers fell in large sections today, but there were notable decreases in the number of deaths and prostrations attributed to the heat. The highest temperature reports from an eastern city was 88 at Albany, while the maximum here was 87.
Despite the relief from the excessive heat, however, these deaths from heat were recorded here, and one of the thunder storms which helped cool the air brought death to two men in the upper part of the city. The men, both foreigners, were killed by lightning. On the back of one of the victims, the police reported finding a note to be an exact reproduction in miniature of the trunk and branches of the tree under which the men were seated when the bolt fell.
Six deaths were reported as being the result of heat in Philadelphia today. The maximum temperature there was 90 degrees.
Two deaths, due to the heat, occurred at Louisville, Ky.

PIERCE, July 12.—The first race of heat prostration here was recorded today when Miss Florence Floersch of Canon City was overcome. The thermometer reached 91 degrees. Miss Floersch, late tonight, was still unconscious at a hospital.

ST. PAUL, July 12.—Alma Fryer, aged 22, and Mary Bergman, aged 5, were killed by the collapse of a barn on a dairy farm here, in a fierce wind and rain storm, late today. An 18-month-old child, Edith Ann Fryer's, was injured and was found under the dead woman's body. The storm did damage to buildings and crops throughout the state. Much damage was done to Minnesota and Wisconsin crops.

CANAL PROTEST TO U. S. SENATE

OFFICIAL NOTIFICATION
FROM SECY. KNOX

Outlines Objections Raised by Great Britain Regarding Matter

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The senate was officially notified of the British protest against the Panama canal administration tonight when Secretary of State Knox, in a letter to Senator Brandegee, chairman of the senate intercanal canal committee, outlined the objections raised by Great Britain.

The letter, paraphrasing the protest by Charge d'Affaires Innes, was generally accepted as vindicating the decision of the state department to leave the entire matter in the hands of congress, where the legislation in dispute is now pending. Secretary Knox's letter follows:

"Sir, I have the honor to bring to the knowledge of your committee the fact that a communication, dated the eighth instant, just received from the British charge d'affaires, indicates that the attention of the British government having been called to various proposals from time to time made for the relieving of American shipping from the payment of tolls on vessels passing through the Panama canal, that government has studied carefully these proposals and the arguments in support of them with a view to the bearing thereon of the provisions of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain of November 18, 1901. The petition sums up the proposal mentioned as follows:

Claims Would Be Infraction.
First: To exempt all American shipping from tolls. Second: to refund to all American ships tolls which they might pay. Third: to exempt from the payment of tolls American ships engaged in the coastwise trade, and fourth: to repay to the last named class of American ships tolls which they might pay. The communication indicates it to be the opinion of the British government that to exempt all American shipping from the payment of tolls would involve an infraction of the treaty and indicates further the opinion that there would be no difference in principle between charging tolls, only thereafter to refund them, and remitting such tolls altogether."

"The communication states that it may be that no objection could be taken if the trade should be so regulated as to make it certain that only bona fide coastwise traffic which is benefited by American vessels would be benefited by this exemption; but that

TWO CITIES ANXIOUS FOR BUILDING OWNERS MEETING

SEATTLE, Wash., July 12.—Cincinnati and Omaha delegates were yesterday campaigning for next week's convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers now in session here. Milwaukee is also prominently mentioned.

For the presidency of the association the contest is between C. E. Horton of Seattle and E. C. Ellis of Chicago, who are presidents of the local organizations in their respective cities. These contests will be decided tomorrow when the convention will conclude its business.
Papers on technical building subjects were read today.

ABOLISH PEACE JUSTICES; OTHER SUGGESTIONS BY NOTED JUDGES

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the municipal court of Chicago delivered the annual address before the Colorado Bar association immediately following the annual dinner at the Antlers hotel last night. Judge Olson's address was on the subject, "The Municipal Court of Chicago," and was divided into two subtitles, "Hanging on the Municipal Court," and "The Court Should Be United." The Justice of the Peace Abolished, and the Recall of Judges."

Immediately following Judge Olson's address, Judge Julian W. Mack of the United States court of commerce at Chicago made a short address on "The Court of Commerce." Judge Mack talked principally on the aim of the court and the work it has accomplished.

Former Governor Charles F. Thomas, of Denver made a short talk on behalf of the "court of 1912," which contains 45 new members and in the bar association. Judge Olson said that the Municipal Court of Chicago was entered by confession, $2,500,000 as a result of trial by jury, and $1,500,000 as a result of trial by the court without a jury.

How Judgments Were Entered.
"In other words, only about $7,000,000 in judgments was entered as a result of contested matters in the court, and about $11,000,000 without a contested trial."
"This clearly demonstrates the importance of a well planned procedure in the trial of cases, and the manner in which it is really done in the courts of this country."

NEW PARTY TO REPRESENT EVERYONE

Protest Against Any Hint of Sectionalism Is Made by Colonel Roosevelt

Declares Where Man Was Born, or What Color Uniform He Wore, Does Not Count

FORGET PAST BITTERNESSES

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 12.—A protest against any hint of sectionalism in the new Progressive party, was made today by Colonel Roosevelt, who said he did not "care a rap" where a man was born or whether his father wore the blue or the gray so long as he was the right type.

Colonel Roosevelt was told of a speech made yesterday by General Daniel E. Sickles of New York at the meeting for the organization of the new party in this state, General Sickles was quoted as saying Woodrow Wilson was "born amid rebel surroundings, and that two of the north have never been disposed to put such a man in the White house."

Colonel Roosevelt said he could not discuss the speech, but that it was the desire of the founders of the new party to make the movement one which would represent all sections of the country.

A Nonsectional Movement.
"The call for the Progressive convention," he continued, "stated that this was to be a nationwide, nonsectional movement, free from any of the sectional or other jealousies and bitter-nesses of the past. In my speech at the Orchestra hall meeting in Chicago in which I stated that I would accept the Progressive nomination, I also stated that we appealed alike to the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the gray and to the sons of the men who wore the blue and the sons of the men who wore the gray."

"The brothers of my mother served in the Confederate army just as the grandsons of my father served in the Union army."

Appeal to Everyone.
"No man has been more prominent in this movement than Judge Ben Lindsey, born in the south, whose father served in Forrest's cavalry. We appeal to the northerners and southerners, easterners and westerners alike."

Ex-Senator Albee and nine other Delaware men who have enlisted in the new party came to see Colonel Roosevelt today.

"They came to talk over conditions in Delaware," said the colonel. "They said they would begin the primary campaign soon and that they believed the Republican machine totally misrepresented the people."

NATIONAL MUNICIPAL LEAGUE SESSIONS END

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—The convention of the National Municipal league was brought to a close today by a discussion of the proposed new charter of the city of Los Angeles.

It appears to his Britannic majesty's government that it would be impossible to frame regulations which would prevent the exemption from resulting in a preference to American shipping and consequently in an infringement of the treaty.

Not Time for Diplomatic Treatment.

The state department has taken the attitude that the protest of the British government against free American ships is not properly a matter for diplomatic treatment at this time. The note outlining the British objections now on its way from London undoubtedly will be transmitted immediately to the senate and the state department probably will make no reply except a formal acknowledgment of the receipt of the communication.

Chairman Adamson of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce tonight asserted that the matter of free tolls to American ships and of discrimination against railroad-owned ships passing through the canal should have been eliminated from the pending bill.

The senate leaders behind the Panama bill were firm in the opinion that the measure would be taken up as soon as reached in the regular order of business in the senate. The British protest, however, undoubtedly will open the floodgates of oratory both for and against the bill and will prolong its consideration.

ARCHBALD'S PREFERENCE WILL BE CONSIDERED IN SETTING DATE FOR TRIAL

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The impeachment trial of Judge Archbald of the commerce court will depend as to date largely upon the preference expressed by the accused jurist.

At least a majority of the Republican senators prefer to postpone the formal proceedings until cooler weather, meantime allowing both the house, which adopted the articles of impeachment with the dissenting vote, and the counsel for defense ample time for preparation. The Democratic senators are disposed to favor early action, but both sides agreed today that Judge Archbald's preference should be given serious consideration.

The official impeachment papers will be submitted to the senate as soon as that body disposes of the Lorimer case. Then the prosecuting managers, headed by Chairman Clayton of the house judiciary committee, will be escorted by the sergeant-at-arms to the base of the senate, where in an address to the presiding officer they will demand that Judge Archbald be summoned to answer to the impeachment.

Question as to Who Will Preside. A committee of five senators will be appointed to consider the house resolution. This committee probably will be headed by Senator Clark of Wyoming, chairman of the judiciary committee.

No decision has been reached by senators as to who shall preside over the senate during the trial. The task is a laborious one, necessitating a careful study of precedents and laws. At the beginning of the Swayne trial the president pro tem, asked to be excused and Senator Platt of Connecticut was selected as president pro tem while the senate was sitting in trial. As the senate so far has been unable to agree upon a regular president pro tem it is probable that a senator will be chosen for the specific work of presiding while the senate is considering the Archbald charges.

SAYS JUDGE HANFORD WAS INTENSE PATRIOT

SEATTLE, Wash., July 12.—After a witness had testified today before the house judiciary subcommittee that United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford was an "intense patriot," the committee placed in the record a copy of a letter written by Judge Hanford on October 20, 1906, to an attorney of Mount Vernon, Wash., who had recommended that the judge appoint a certain man to office. The letter says, in part:

"Your letter of October 19, together with a petition for the appointment of Mr. Weppeler to be United States court commissioner at McMurray, has been referred to me.

"I do not usually inquire about the politics of persons recommended for appointment as commissioners; but loyalty and a belief that the national government may rightfully exercise its lawful authority in all places are qualifications for the office, and when the times comes for making an appointment I will not regard Mr. Weppeler as a suitable person unless I am assured that he is not a supporter of the Chicago platform of the candidates for office who subscribe to its declarations.

"I say this because I am not personally acquainted with Mr. Weppeler and do not know his position in this campaign. (Signed)

"C. H. HANFORD."

"Don't you know that the effect of Judge Hanford's letter would have been to disqualify from holding office 5,000,000 American voters?" asked Chairman Graham.

Other witnesses testified today as to the drinking habits of Judge Hanford. One witness told that he had won a wager that in any one of nine saloons the bartender, if asked for a "Judge Hanford Martini," would substitute an option for the customary olive. The witness said that he had been acquainted with business transactions because of his testimony. Other witnesses testified that while Judge Hanford was accustomed to drinking alcoholic beverages, he always was "temperate."

FORCED TO SURRENDER NOTES

DENVER, July 12.—C. F. Gigue, who was cited to appear before District Judge Riddle two weeks ago to surrender notes he held against the Denver-Laramie Realty company to Marshall Smith, receiver of the company, and who refused either to appear or to surrender the notes at that time, was forced to surrender the documents yesterday. The amount of the holdings of Gigue was said to be $5,500, and they were delivered to C. S. Johnson, formerly an officer of the realty company.

RENEWS BORDER PATROL

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Colonel Steever has renewed his patrol of the Mexican border. He telegraphed the war department today that he had sent a cavalry detachment from El Paso by way of El Paso, N. M., to the Spring to guard the border, near the point to prevent smuggling and looting where a force of rebels is reported to have assembled.

TWO TEXANS DROWN

TEMPLE, Texas, July 12.—When a boat carrying five persons was overturned on the Lampasas river late last night, Charles Holloway rescued two of the party. Two others were drowned. The victims were Frank Kregan and Miss Elizabeth Henson. Mrs. Kregan and Mrs. Charles Holloway were pulled from the water, but it is feared Mrs. Kregan cannot live. All were residents of west Texas.

JUDGE FINES HIMSELF FOR SPEEDING AN AUTO

FORT DODGE, Ia., July 12.—S. M. McGowan, police judge, who has fined scores of automobile drivers for exceeding the speed limit, acted as judge and defendant in his own court yesterday. A policeman reported that McGowan's car was too speedy and the judge first pleaded not guilty. Later he changed his plea and assessed the fine against himself.

Posse Captures Two Bandits After Desperate Fight

CRAIG, Colo., July 12.—Two unidentified bandits who had been terrorizing ranchers in this region for the last 10 days were captured late today after a desperate fight of several hours. They were driven from the cabin in which they had taken refuge by the use of dynamite.

Frank Dempsey, a convict who escaped from the Wyoming penitentiary last January, was not one of the two as was first reported. It is believed that he left the two men on an agreement to meet them later.

Posses from Moffat and Routt counties, Colorado, and from Carbon county, Wyoming, participated in the battle. The men were overtaken as they reached the cabin of Ed Schmitzer on Slater creek, 40 miles northeast of here. They overpowered Schmitzer and his wife and held them in the structure until a posse was made to let the farmer and his wife out. Then the firing kept up for several hours. Finally Sheriff Ledford of Moffat county placed dynamite under the cabin while the posesses drew the fire of the men. When told that fuses had been lighted, the men surrendered and rushed from the cabin. One was wounded.

Their identities are yet unsolved. One gives his name as Morgan and that is all. The other refuses to give a name. It is believed he is "Bill" James, a reputed "bad man" who came to this section a few weeks ago.

The men are wanted for entering ranchers' houses and taking firearms, ammunition and horses.

REPORTERS CALLED AS WITNESSES FOR DARROW

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—The defense in the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow drew today on the press section of the court room for witnesses, in addition to the recalling to the stand for further cross-examination, Robert F. Bain, the juror alleged to have been bribed in the McNamara trial, and closing the day's session by calling Tom L. Johnson, attorney for Bert H. Franklin, who confessed to jury bribery.

Witnesses from the press section were called to impeach Franklin's evidence. They included T. M. Willard, press photographer; Harry H. Jones and J. L. Bernard, reporters for local newspapers, all of whom had been present at the preliminary examination of Franklin. Willard testified that Franklin had made a statement completely exonerating Mr. Darrow from any connection with the alleged offense. Franklin, when on the stand, had denied making such statements.

In the cross-examination of Jones, Assistant District Attorney Ford virtually accused the newspaper men of having been employed by the defense, a charge which was denied by the witness and repudiated by the attorneys for the defense.

When Bain again took the stand, Attorney Rogers asked if he had ever told J. B. Henderson, a neighbor, that Darrow and Harriman had nothing to do with his corruption. He said that he had not.

Henderson testified that Bain had told him Franklin alone was responsible for his trouble and that Darrow had nothing to do with it.

Franklin's testimony that he had no transactions with John B. Harrington, the chief investigator of the McNamara defense, was contradicted by Miss Fern Kernaghan, a former stenographer in the office of the McNamara defense. She testified to having seen both in consultation frequently.

The prosecution objected to Attorney Johnson testifying on the ground that he could not tell his professional relations with Franklin unless the latter consented. The defense held that when Franklin took the stand he waived any such rights and that he could not be successfully impeached on certain points without the evidence of the lawyer. The question was under discussion when court adjourned until Monday morning.

BEAR COMES TO LUNCH

SANTA FE, N. M., July 12.—A large bear today walked into the summer camp of William H. Goebel, a Santa Fe hardware merchant on the Upper Pecos. The family was gathered about the table eating dinner, unarmed and unwarned, and scattered in all directions. The bear seized an open jar of honey and made off.

The Tertiary lake basin at Florissant is one of the most famous localities for fossils in the world. Plants, insects, birds, fish and many other forms of life of the Miocene period are wonderfully preserved in shale, deposited in layers which readily split apart, revealing the specimens, just as they fell during the volcanic eruptions, in prodigious numbers. The Colorado Midland Railway has opened up a very large deposit to which patrons of the Wildflower train may have free access. Stop is made at this wonderful laboratory of nature to gather specimens.

tain many varieties, every plant is still to be found growing in the valley of the Nile. Moreover, the closest examination fails to reveal the slightest differences between the plants that flourished 50 centuries ago and those which the traveler sees today on the banks of the river.

Flowers such as the bay Moses or the children of Joseph picked still bloom unchanged. There are to be seen here blue sprays of larkspur which loving hands laid upon the bodies of those who died a thousand years before Abraham and Sarah went into Egypt.

In the tombs of later date have been found, together with apparently simple ornamental flowers such as hollyhocks and chrysanthemums, the various fruits, vegetables and grains for which the land has ever been renowned, such as figs, dates, olives, grapes, pomegranates, onions, barley and wheat. Around the necks and upon the breasts of those who died at the time when Solomon reigned in Jerusalem, about 1000 B. C., were found garlands of glory, which does not appear to have been used at that time as a vegetable by the Egyptians.

All these plants, when they were prepared for the funeral ceremonies, were subjected to great heat by which their form and color were preserved, but their germinating power was destroyed. Hence all the stories which have been told of wheat having been raised from grains that have lain in the wrappings of mummies for 50 centuries are untrue. Unscrupulous natives have sold credulous travelers wheat in which modern grains have been mixed with the ancient, but only the modern grains can germinate.

mentals is simple. So long as men are differences will arise between them which they can not or will not settle themselves by any peaceable means. There must be an authority to decide. Society demands peace within its borders and provides the court as an arbiter. But the court must decide by application of rules governing the transactions out of which the dispute arose.

Laws are those rules of human conduct which one must obey or take the consequences prescribed by civil authority.

In essence, then, the function of the court is to ascertain the facts, apply to them the law and decide the issue.
In essence the method by which the facts are ascertained is immaterial. In essence the procedure by which the difference are laid before the court is immaterial.

Ritual of a Court.

These constitute the ritual of a court.
They form no part of the living word which it is there to speak, and in their essence they are not law at all. But instead of leaving them as rules of the court, which the court could apply or waive as it best sees fit, the court in the name of the very right of the controversy, we have made of them laws. We have enacted them, and imposed them as binding upon the court's own action. With the result that the frustration or disregard of the ritual is frequently as fatal to a litigant as in-fracture or disregard of the law governing the transaction involved.

"Why have we done this thing? Why have we enacted laws which are not the fact, to a party with the law governing the fact, by which alone that fact should be judged and the consequences imposed?"

There are many answers to that question, but one of them is good that put together justify us in leaving this condition of things unchanged.
The most that the answers do is to explain how this condition was brought about.

One answer is historical. Our fathers in the early colonial days had no courts as we understand the term. In the New England colonies, and some others, they had no law except the of the common law as they considered fitted to new conditions in the new world and so chose to adopt, and such as they framed themselves from Holy Writ or other sources. They had no law books. They had few lawyers, and the earlier judges, even chief justices of the colonies, were not trained in the bar or learned in the law. In all of the 13 colonies the legislature and the judicial functions were in the hands of the same men, with the executive participating and the clergy potent in counsel. To this day in the commonwealth of Massachusetts the legislature is often spoken of as the "general court."

No Recognized Procedure Then.

It is not surprising that there was no recognized practice or procedure in those earlier courts. Not surprising that it is a colonial experience to a degree, of the executive, the legislative and the judicial functions when the constitution came to be framed. A single legislature adopted in the several states composing the Union.

In that constructive period it was natural also that the several legislatures in setting on foot a state court should not only provide for their jurisdiction should be and how it should be acquired over the person, but also how it should be exercised when once acquired. System was desirable, and in courts scattered through the country, settled communities, with judges riding circuit, system was more easily attained. By legislative enactment.
There was a widespread prejudice against lawyers, at times accompanied by a special hatred of the law. Frequent attempts to debar all paid lawyers from practice in the courts. The influence of the comparatively few lawyers who had attended the Inns of Court, and read the law, was small.
Some special pleading in London was strong enough among their brethren in the courts, but not strong enough to lead to the adoption in toto of the then English pleading and procedure.

The outcome was a system largely legislative in source, and far more simple and direct than what then obtained in England. As instance, the pleadings and practice in Massachusetts.

But, as in the federal government, the system was one of checks and balances. There was a fear, voiced by the people through the legislature, of vesting too much power in the judge, of making that power lasting.

All Traditions Abandoned.

All traditions of the race were abandoned when, as by the New York constitution of 1846, resort was had to election of judges for short terms, popular vote. The great body of the common law of England had been propounded by judges who all held under executive appointment, and never by election at the polls, a method perpetuated in our federal judiciary.
The codification movement led by David Dudley Field, and following the work of Bentham in England, led to practice acts and codes of procedure in the several states, including our own. In tended to abolish distinctions in forms of action, simplify and harmonize procedure, and reduce the importance of adjective law. But here again it was the legislature regulating the courts, in the name of the people, and the procedure over to the courts to regulate for themselves.

In 1873, England, which had been lagging far behind in the efficiency of her courts—as witness the writings of Dickens, him of the "Pickwickian Club" leaped to the fore with her judicature act, and her Canadian and other possessions have followed her.

The essential difference between the American and the English system seems to be that here the legislature makes the rules for the court, and there the courts, which have the work to do, make their own rules, free to change, amend or waive them on the instant as the occasion requires.

Our Jury System Distorted.

Again we have so distorted our jury system which still functions well in England and "made it make it an instrument of intolerable delay, especially in criminal cases—witness the Thaw case and the Darrow case, now on trial, as well as the McNamara case which preceded it, and compare them with the jury system of the New York Bar association in January, by Mr. Justice Riddell of the high court of justice, Toronto:

"I have never in all my 30 years experience at the Ontario bar and on the bench taken more than 30 minutes to find a jury, even in a murder case." In murder cases before me I have never been more than a day and a quarter, and in most cases less than a day.
The fact is that instead of leveling up our courts we have been leveling them down. In our jealousy or distrust, we prefer to elect our judges by popular vote, for short terms, and on inadequate salaries, to a bench where they sit hampered and cramped by various rules of our devising and with which they must comply and enforce compliance, on pain of "exceptions." Into this court come litigants who do not want justice; they want to win.
They retain adroit counsel with instructions, such as I have known to be indorsed on the summons, "make the defendant pay, and if you cannot do so for the plaintiff as possible. These counsel dodge through the underbrush with which the legislature has hedged about the court, and play the game of hide-and-seek just as long as the rules permit. It becomes in many instances a little more than a match of wit and skill between counsel. One of the district judges said to me only the other day that in one county of his district it is a recognized thing that the arguments, and not their clients, are on trial.

Judge Watches "Games."

In such a court the elective judge sits watching the game, often the only man in court room who sincerely desires to see justice done, but compelled to give to each litigant and his attorney his "statutory rights" in the playing of the game. It is too often true, however, that the trial judge does not exercise the powers which he possesses, even under our system, and that he could confine counsel to the issue and the record far more than is done.

Then comes the cunning injection of "exceptions" into the instructions asked of the judge, and the motion for new trial and the writ of error prayed out from an entirely different court, which requires a printed record, printed bill of exceptions, and printed briefs in order to review, at some distant day, the voluminous chronicles of the maneuvers in the court below, as well as the facts and the law which turn the very right of the controversy.

You will understand that I am only illustrating what is made possible under our system, and is made practically impossible under the English system, which uses the public eye, while the trial judge sits in the shadows of unspectacular litigation which is being well and thoroughly tried and decided in the regular course of the administration of justice.

And why should we have the expense and delay of going up to a distinct court on a printed record?

Urges One Statewide Court.

Why not have one statewide court of justice with its trials and appellate branches, the judges assignable by the presiding judge to conduct trials, on circuits or sit in review on an appellate branch? Why not have all rules, records and procedure of that one court and all judges interchangeably go where there is need of them, relieving the congested dockets, and not sitting in chambers waiting for a new crop of litigation to come? Why not pay them salaries adequate as an inducement to the ablest lawyers to leave a lucrative practice, with a tenure and old-age pension befitting the dignity of the office? Why not subject them to the discipline of their fellow judges, and, if accused, to trial and judgment by their fellow judges.
Instead of swarming full pendulum from the futility of impeachment as the dubious experiment of recall by popular vote?

Surely no man is called to higher service than to sit in judgment upon his fellow man. Society should expect the highest qualifications and pay its highest wage for that service. At present society in this state does neither.
In too great a degree we make political availability the test. We select good campaigners, to stand for election, and then we expect them to do the work of the judges. We have never taken advantage of the constitutional permission that the election of judges may be held on a different day, separate and apart from elections for any other purpose. No sooner has the elected judge become well acquainted with his duties than he must stand for reelection, if he wishes to continue on the bench.

Perhaps, a sufficient commentary upon the present need in this state for the proposed recall of judges to note in passing that every justice of the peace, every county judge, every district judge in fact, every judge of this state, except possibly some police magistrate, will be automatically recalled at the November election. I mean, of course, that they must then stand at the polls, be recalled, as subject to the proposed recall amendment, and the same is true of the district attorneys.

In other words, if the people so will there can be a clean sweep of the entire trial bench of this state, at the coming election and their places filled by new and untired men. Such a system would not make for efficiency in a bank or a railroad. Does it make for efficiency in a court?

Denounces Peace Justice Courts.

Thus far I have touched upon courts of record, chiefs on the civil side, and there have been some of the justices of the peace, the "poor man's courts," as they are sometimes called. How well they meet the requirements of life in small communities, or in farming sections, I have had little opportunity to observe. But in our cities they should be swept with a broom. They are a shame on a blight and a scandal. They have been made into collection agencies for usurers, instruments of blackmail, extortion and oppression in nameless ways, even where the justices are themselves upright men. With justices untrained to the law for the most part, tempted by a fee system to encourage litigation and to multiply costs against those who can least afford to pay them, aided by constable who have the same inducement and surrounded by corruptors also hungry for prey, the most defended part of our community is exposed to the most shocking injustice and imposition, practiced in the name and

TWENTY STEAMERS IN ELKS EXCURSION FLEET

Delegates and Visitors to Portland Convention to Be Entertained by Puget Sound Cities

PORTLAND, Ore., July 12.—The big event today for the delegates to the grand lodge of Elks was a river trip down the Columbia river. Twenty river steamers formed the excursion fleet.
Tonight the grand ball was held. It was the closing event of the varied array of social courtesies extended to the delegates. Thousands of Elks have departed for their homes, and tomorrow will witness a still greater exodus.
Tacoma is prepared to show the Elks courtesies which will extend over three days, and then the herd will go to Seattle to attend the annual net in-chance. Nearly all of the grand lodge delegates, including Grand Exalted Ruler Thomas B. Miller, Superior, Wis., will visit the Puget sound cities. Grand Exalted Ruler Miller appointed today Albert T. Holly of Hackensack, N. J., chairman of the board of trustees of the grand lodge, and Harry L. Applegate of Salt Lake City, secretary. It was announced that the personnel of the existing standing committees would not be changed until September.

under the color of the law. The fees are statutory. The summons and gar-nishment are duly made out and served, and the waterman who is behind one day in paying the last dollar on the installment plan for some household necessity is mulcted, in addition, with five or six dollars in costs, all of which go into the pockets of the justice and the constable. That is a plain case of honest debt, but there are infinite varieties of grafts and "frame-ups" which can be practiced upon the erring and the unwary.

Should Get Ablest Judges.

We should select our ablest judges.
Those with widest human sympathy and capacity, as well as learning in the law, to perform in cities the functions now assigned to justices of the peace. We should pay them what it is worth to society to have justice based on understanding and tempered with mercy extended without cost to those who most need it and now have least chance of getting it. We should abolish the fee system altogether, and make the case pay the referee, the over-borne and submerged, the open gate of a temple of justice glorious without and within.

We are not to consider the ways and means of administering justice, which is the end of all law, and not at this meeting to especially consider reform in or codification of the law itself.
To increase efficiency in our courts, wherever lacking, should be our aim.
It may well be that neither the English system nor the Canadian system as a whole would stand transplanting into our conditions and environment.
But we can learn something—at least from their practical operation, and possibly we can learn more from what is being done in the municipal court of Chicago.

Litigation there is conducted under rules provided by the court under the control of the statute, and of it Judge Cutting, of the Cook county probate court, in a recent address, after referring to the wonder which he had heard expressed as to the readiness and ease with which the bar had adapted itself to that method of trying important cases, said:

Quotes Judge Cutting.

"I saw the pleadings only a day or two ago. In a matter involving $200, the pleadings on both sides were written, and it was an exceedingly important matter which involved many, many involved and intricate questions of law, and yet the whole story was told on those two half sheets of legal cap."
The chief justice of the municipal court of Chicago is with us and we hope to hear from him tonight something of the efficiency of that court, unusually unique between the Canadian and the Mexican border.
In the first American address to lawyers, made by Cotton Mather in 1710, he closed his admonition with these words:

"You may, gentlemen, if you please, be a vast accession to the felicity of your country." * * * Perhaps you may discover many things yet wanting in the law, mischiefs in the execution and application of the laws, which ought to be better provided against; mischiefs annoying of mankind against which no laws are yet provided. The reformation of the law and the way for the reformation of the world is what is mightily called for."

The task before us is endless. The law never can keep pace with human development, because it is itself, a generalization from what has been developed. There must be many instances before the rule applicable to future instances can be deduced.
Yet we of the bar, from which the bench is drawn, can and must do our part toward the reformation of the law. "To none will we sell, to none will we deny, or delay, right or justice," and where we fail we may console ourselves with the "humilitation of Thomas Jefferson:

"Our children will prove as wise as we are, and will establish in the fullness of time those things not yet ripe for establishment."

"Fault in Criminal Procedure Lies in Interpretation," Ward

Pointed paragraphs from address by Thomas Ward, Jr. of Denver, on "Criminal Procedure," before Bar association, yesterday:

"It is the object of most lawyers defending criminals, not to obtain a fair and impartial jury by the exercise of their mercenary influence, but to obtain a jury unfair and partial,
and, from my experience, I am inclined to believe the prosecutor seeks the same end."

"Our system of proceeding judges, in my opinion, is bad. The amount of money they are paid is inadequate."

"The district judge, selected in a political convention, dependent upon a final vote of the people, at a salary of $4,000, to serve for six years, is not always the man who should be trusted with the disposition of our lives and property."

"In my opinion, the salary of district judges should not be less than $10,000 a year; supreme court judges should receive at least $20,000."

"District judges should be appointed, not elected."

"Members of the bar are responsible for existing conditions. If the lawyers of the state would do their duty, we would not have the complaints now lodged against our courts."

"We lawyers are usually cowards.
We do not speak up openly when we see wrong perpetrated upon us or for us."

"When a judge decides for us, we usually think it is right, but frequently we know that it is wrong."

"Lawyers should promote justice.
None should be before a court and urge propositions he knows to be incorrect simply to gain a point for his client."

"Judges are often risen above the bar by a high standard of living, rigorously enforced, will bring about the same result in the bench."

"Condemn the unworthy judge, uphold the righteous judge."

"See to it that we the bar, do our duty."

Some Reason for Complaint:

"Criminal procedure," said Mr.
Ward, "has been the subject of many an essay, many a newspaper editorial, and criticism by yellow journals and muck-raking magazines, innumerable.
When a criminal case is tried, which does not proceed as rapidly as the yellow journals think it should, or if the verdict is rendered by a jury contrary to the general newspaper-made opinion of the community, a cry goes up that something should be done to prevent such miscarriages of justice.
There is some reason, usually in these universal complaints, some foundation of truth, however small."

Mr. Ward handled the subject of criminal procedure in an exhaustive manner, and said that there is no necessity for a reform in the laws regarding the apprehension of persons charged with crime; that the delay formerly occasioned by the meeting of grand jury has been done away with; that under the Colorado statutes, with an intelligent strong and enlightened judge, no further legislation is necessary regarding criminal proceedings.

Fault in Interpretation.

If there are too many technicalities observed by the courts regarding the construction of indictments and informations," he said, "if there is delay occasioned by a too strict construction of indictments and informations, the fault does not lie with the laws written upon the statute books of the state, but upon and with those who construe them."

Passing on to the trial proper, Mr.
Ward expressed the opinion that too much time is given to procuring a jury, but here again, he said, the statute is not at fault. He recommended, however, that the number of challenges in murder cases and in other felony actions should be limited to that number in cases where there may be one or half a dozen defendants. Under the present decisions of the courts, each defendant has his full quota of challenges. Mr. Ward said that, in his opinion, no further laws are needed regarding the admission of testimony, and in this connection said he preferred the system by which judges instruct the jury after arguments are in, instead of before, as is done in Colorado.

The fault in criminal procedure, Mr.
Ward summed up, does not lie with the written law, but in the construction of the law by those selected to interpret it.

cases also was given in a comprehensive manner. The committee says:
"In punishment, as it now exists, is a ponderous and expensive proceeding, and wholly unsatisfactory. It can be resorted to only when the legislature is in session, and the conduct of the proceedings is too likely to be influenced by political considerations." Recommendation was made that to the committee on law reform be referred the matter of reporting on a method whereby judges may be tried by some tribunal as far as possible removed from political influences."

It is regarded as a foregone conclusion that Secretary William H. Wadler of Denver and the other officers, with the exception of President Henry C. Hall, will be re-elected today. It is a rule of the association that the president shall not be re-elected.

of the various courts in Illinois, telling of their uses and showing how each is independent of the other. In the judicial department of the state there are 223 courts of record, with 250 judges, a like number of clerks and almost 2,000 sheriffs and deputies. In addition there are more than 3,000 justices and an equal number of constables.
The first proposal, then, in the improvement in the administration of justice would be the organization of the courts into a coordinate machine.

After speaking at some length on the manner in which the judicial power of the state should be invested in one great court, and arguing for the abolition of the justice of the peace, Judge Olson summarized his recommendations, as follows:

Some Recommendations

"Organization of the judicial power of the state into one great court, of which all tribunals shall be branches, departments and divisions."

"Consolidation of clerical offices under the control of the court."

"Abolition of the offices of justice of the peace and constable, and the substitution of courts of record as courts of first instance."

"Care in the selection of men for the judicial office. In the large cities candidates should be recommended by the bar associations."

"Tenure of office and salaries of the judges should be such as to attract capable men."

"Terms of court should be abolished.
Common law pleadings should be abolished and brief statements of claim and statements of defense, covering the nature of the claim and defense, should be substituted."

"The making of rules of practice and procedure in the court should generally be left to the court itself and not to the legislature."

"Prosecutions of criminal cases should be instituted by information as well as by the action of the grand jury."

Let Judges Try Colleagues

In the matter of the recall of judges, Justice Olson spoke in favor of the system now in use in the municipal court of Chicago, rather than "any scheme devised in political controversy during a heated campaign." This system provides that all the judges of the court meet once a month to take under consideration any matter pertaining to the proper administration of justice in the city of Chicago. Judge Olson said:

"It seems to me that if the judge is subject to discipline of his associates, he will be more scrupulously careful to maintain the best traditions of the bench in his judicial and his private conduct. His lack of ability in any domain of the law may be overcome through his assignment by the chief justice of the court to such work as he is best fitted to perform."

Judge Olson advised the people of Colorado not to provide for the recall of judges, but to unify the court system into a single coordinate machine, the judges of which should be in districts or divisions, and should meet monthly to consider all matters pertaining to the administration of justice within the divisions.

"The opinion of the majority of the judges," he said, "that the conduct of any member of the judiciary is deserving of criticism will be known to the public and will be the means of fixing on the standard by which the public will be able to determine whether or not such a judge shall be retained from the bench."

Judge Mack Talks

Judge Mack opened his address by further emphasizing the remarks made by various other speakers during the day in regard to the necessity of the different bar associations putting the candidates for judges of different courts on a nonpartisan ticket, placing the best available men in the lower courts and abolishing the justice of the peace. Then, taking up his topic for the evening, he said:

"I have been asked to discuss the commerce court, but as I have not seen the latest edition of an afternoon paper, I am not sure whether there is such a court. The house has passed a bill abolishing the commerce court and the senate has amended the bill so it will also abolish the judges. It is now in congress and may be passed and sent to the president at any time. For this reason, I may be delivering a funeral oration."

"The commerce court was created to pass on the rulings of the interstate commerce commission in case of a dispute, and to enforce the rulings of the commission. Without this commerce court it would be impossible to appeal any of the rulings direct to the supreme court. When it was created it was given the same power that the circuit courts held, nothing more, and was intended to hasten the cases."

Delay if Abolished

"If this court is abolished," said Judge Mack, "what court can take its place and do the work it has been doing? In case of an appeal from the decision of the interstate commerce commission, the case would have to be taken to one of the inferior federal courts, where it might lay for several years before it reached the supreme court and was ripe for a decision. With the commerce court the case was tried within three months and when appealed to the supreme court a decision was usually handed down within eight months or a year, as these cases always are considered first."

Judge Mack discussed at some length the time that would be required to settle a case by means of the inferior federal courts and of the number of courts to which the various railroads could take their cases—almost any district court in the country, as the roads operate throughout the United States.
He closed by citing a number of cases settled by the commerce court, or appealed from that court to the supreme court.

tional convention at Chicago, was obtained by fraudulent methods, and is, therefore, not binding on the rank and file of the party; that a committee be appointed to devise ways and means to secure the selection of electors at the Republican assembly of Colorado, to be held on July 31, pledged to the election of Theodore Roosevelt for president, and that said committee also proceed to carry out a campaign at the Republican assembly and the state primary to secure the nomination of Republicans who will support and work for the progressive principles for which the Progressive Republicans and Theodore Roosevelt stand.

Committee Approved

The undersigned committee, appointed at said conference, are in hearty sympathy with said resolution, and propose to carry it out to the best of their ability, in letter and in spirit.
We are convinced that the sentiment of the Republicans of this state is wholly in accord with such a plan of campaign, and we note that our judgment in this matter is being confirmed by those Republican states in which conventions have been held since the Chicago convention, notably in South Dakota and in Iowa, where the Republicans in state conventions assembled have nominated Mr. Taft's nomination as fraudulent, and in the case of South Dakota, the Republican party has selected Roosevelt electors to head their ticket, while in the case of Iowa the matter was left entirely to the individual conscience of the voters, and a platform containing a direct attack upon the legality of the Chicago convention was adopted by an overwhelming vote.

The Republican party is taking entirely the same position in states of Oregon, California, Idaho, Utah, Nebraska, Kansas, Po-vonia, New Jersey and Minnesota we believe that like action is taken in a majority of the Republ states of the nation.

Devine's Threat

We note by the Pueblo Chilspeaking undoubtedly for Mr. and his associate, Mr. Stevenson, ing the leaders of the Taft move-at Chicago and in Colorado—a comment of some Taft adherents the state, that an attempt was made to challenge voters and deseats of delegates who voted the program outlined by the core.

Therefore, in order that this matter and the Republican throughout the state may be a of your position, we now ask you the state central committee to speak attitude in the premises what action, if any, you prop-take with reference to challenging voters and contesting delegates stand for the principles outlined Very truly yours,

TALES of the TURKISH TROPHIES

TALE 6—THE CHAFING DISH

"WHY all the rough work?" asked the Kink, as a prisoner was rushed before him at the Royal Banquet.

"This is the new chef, your Majesty," answered the Head of the Secret Service. "He was concocting something from cheese that he called a rabbit."

But it had no tail and no ears.
It looks incredible."

"Release him, at once," commanded the Kink. "Looks are ever deceptive. Turkish Trophies look like a quarter a box but they sell for a dime."

And the Kink ate his rabbit with great gusto.

RAMAH FARMERS WORK ON ROADS NEXT MONDAY

The people of Ramah are planning to hold a "Good Roads day" next Monday. They expect to have 50 teams and 10 men out, and hope to finish eight miles of road during the day. Their work will be confined to the highway running south from Ramah, Commissioner Hutchinson and Road Overseer Bartlett will be there with the county grader, and will have full charge of the work.

SWAT THE FLY PICTURES ARE HEARTILY INDORSED

The committee on public health and the entire Chamber of Commerce have indorsed the free moving picture show at the Opera house tomorrow night, on "Our Enemy, the Fly," and the committee, especially, is giving its earnest support to the movement for the abolition of the fly pest in Colorado. Dr. Sherman Williams of Denver, who will deliver the lecture, is with the state board of health in the fight to rid Colorado of flies, and his carefully prepared lecture, illustrated with slides and moving pictures, giving the complete life history of the obnoxious contagion bearer, the common house fly, is of great public interest.

The moving picture film was produced at great cost, due to the difficulty in photographing so small an object in action, but the result was gratifying to those in charge of the work. Scientific terms will be done away with to a great extent tomorrow night, and the facts will be presented to the audience in a simple, forceful logic. The public is urged to attend the free show.

Following a meeting, yesterday, Dr. B. B. Glover, president of the El Paso County Medical society, said that the crusade against flies is heartily indorsed by that organization, and the hope was expressed that the lecture tomorrow evening be largely attended.

COUGHLIN CALLED EAST IN SETTLEMENT ESTATE

Alderman John J. Coughlin starts for Des Moines tomorrow evening, where he has been summoned by the court and the administrator of the estate of James and George Hanly, his cousins, who were killed in an automobile accident at Geneva, Ill., two weeks ago.

All the heirs of the estate, which is estimated to be worth about $1,000,000, are cousins of the Hanlys, who made their fortunes in farming and cattle raising in Iowa. It is understood there are eight heirs, which means that each will receive more than $100,000. Coughlin is called to Des Moines at this time to consult with the administrator and other heirs concerning the disposition of the Hanly holdings and to decide upon the best way to handle the estate. In addition to cattle, the Hanlys owned more than 10,000 acres of land in Polk county, Iowa, and several big grain elevators. Mr. Coughlin expects to be gone from Colorado Springs about a week.

SPECIAL CAR FOR LOCAL MOOSE TO CONVENTION

Colorado Springs Moose will have a special Pullman to take them to the twenty-fourth annual international Moose convention to be held in Kansas City, Mo., August 19 to 23. In view of the large number expected to go from Colorado, it is probable a special train will be run from Denver, leaving the evening of August 17.

Special folders concerning the trip have been issued by the Santa Fe. It is estimated that the convention will be attended by about 50,000, and a number of special trains from distant points will be run to Kansas City for the gathering.

News of Local Courts

Allie A. Lass filed suit for divorce from Richard C. Lass in the county court yesterday, alleging cruelty. The couple were married here June 30, 1909.

Ethel Edwards also filed suit for divorce from W. Hollis Edwards in the same court, charging cruelty. They were married in Colorado City October 11, 1911.

In Justice Dunnington's court yesterday, Millie Basham was fined $1 and costs for disturbance, and L. R. Kirkpatrick, colored, was sent to the county jail for 30 days on the same charge. His wife will be tried on the same count this morning.

Deaths and Funerals

Mrs. George J. Wallace, 552 East Bijou street, died last night at a local hospital. She was the wife of George J. Wallace of the Short Line, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Eddy of 913 East Vermont. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Fred Buckley of 1013 South Tejon street died last night at a local hospital. He had been associated with C. A. Hubbard and Company. His wife survives him. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

TOURISTS ARE ARRIVING HERE IN GREAT NUMBERS

Tourists are arriving in Colorado Springs in large numbers, driven to the cool region by the extreme heat of the east, south and middle west. The season has just begun, according to the proprietors of rooming houses and hotels, who have had more calls this week for accommodations than any time this year.

The trains arriving in the city yesterday from the east were crowded, some of them having extra sleepers and coaches.

Automobile parties are arriving in greater number each day, and before the season is over it is estimated that there will be more than 50,000 automobiles on the list of auto visitors. This is largely due to the great amount of advertising that has been done for the Chamber of Commerce and the railroads.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON "PAUL AT ATHENS"

An illustrated lecture on "Paul at Athens" will be given at the first Congregational church tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Colorado Springs branch of the Archaeological Institute of America. The lecturer is Professor Mitchell Carroll of Washington, D. C., general secretary of the institute, one of the lecturers of the course being given under the auspices of the local society of the institute and Colorado college.

By means of slides carefully made from photographs taken while he was in Athens, Professor Carroll presents a picture of the city as it appeared in the days of the apostle, and points out the many local allusions in the account given in the Acts, as for example, the market place, the schools of the philosophers, Mars Hill, the Acropolis, the theater and the gold and ivory image of the goddess Athens. All interested are invited to attend the lecture, which is free.

Ministers to Picnic at Mount Manitou Monday

The ministers of Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou and their families will enjoy the annual ministers' picnic on Mount Manitou next Monday. They will gather at the incline station at 10:30 Monday morning to make the trip to the top. It will be an informal affair, and the picnic lunch will be served at noon. Dr. S. M. Hall will act as toastmaster and short addresses will be given by Dr. Samuel Garvin, Dr. W. W. Ranney, the Rev. J. Y. Ewart and the Rev. S. E. Brewster.

NEW LIGHTS ON TONIGHT

The lights on the new ornamental iron poles on Pike's Peak avenue, between Cascade and Tejon, will be lighted tonight for the first time. The poles are carried out. The new poles are being installed on the other streets as fast as possible, and about one block a week is the rate of advance at present, according to J. F. Postel, general manager of the Colorado Springs Light, Heat and Power company. The limited capacity of the Progressive Street and Elmwood company to turn out the iron poles is the governor that limits the speed of installation.

Seven blocks already signed up will be completed by September 1, and from the present outlook, several other blocks will be included in the signed-up district, which will extend the work into the fall months.

EXTEND R. R. TO SPRINGS

The Turkey Creek Stone and Gypsum company, owning big quarries 33 miles south of Colorado Springs, will soon start construction on a standard gauge, steam railroad from its quarries to this city, according to J. H. Jenkins, secretary of Pueblo's Business Men's association, while here in conference with Secretary Henderson of the local Chamber of Commerce, concerning the program for the Colorado commercial. Jenkins' meeting in Manitou, next week. The road already has built into Pueblo, and the acquisition of the line to this city means a great deal in a commercial way. The line will mean fully as much to Colorado Springs as to Pueblo.

INSTALL ELEVATOR SOON

Of the $3,500 needed for an elevator for the hospital, $2,700 already has been subscribed and paid by local people, leaving $800 yet to be secured. The elevator, which has been ordered and will be installed soon, will be one of the finest and the first of its kind here. It is to be an Otis Automatic Electric, operated entirely by a system of buttons, so that anyone can run it. It will be large enough to carry a cot containing a sick person.

FOUR KINDS OF SOIL; PARABLE OF THE SOWER

At the meeting of the Men and Religion Forward Movement class of the Asbury Methodist church tomorrow, a novel feature has been arranged for the discussion, to be led by A. SHOWS VALUE PORTLAND'S NEW SAFETY APPLIANCES

The Portland Gold Mining company is praised in Cripple Creek for its part in rescuing the bodies of Christ Mark and Andrew Vogesser from the bottom of the poison-filled shaft of the Yellow Bird property, last Thursday. The Portland company's government safety appliances, said to be the only outfit of its kind in the Cripple Creek district, proved indispensable in the rescue of the bodies, which would still have been at the bottom of the shaft but for the Portland company's foresight in securing the apparatus, about a year ago, when the government mine rescue car was in Cripple Creek. It is thought that the two men who met death in the Yellow Bird mine might have been rescued, if a rescue station had been near by.

PRESTON KENDALL, DIRECTOR THE BURNS COMPANY.

The thousands who have already witnessed the performances at The Burns have remarked at the correctness of the staging of the productions and it is not infrequently that comparisons are made of the stock plays with the traveling attractions—and in favor of the former. Preston Kendall is one of the best-known dramatic directors on the American stage, and is known to the profession in London theaters as well as any American director, having been identified with producing at the Earl's Court. In "The Lion and the Mouse" Mr. Kendall has shown the master hand in stage craftsmanship and that it has appeared in best evidence by the large attendance of the week.

A KISS, A KICK AND A SMUDGE OF PAINT

In Paris and as time passes he gradually ceases to think of his promise to Barton and his engagement to Netta and becomes attached to Mrs. Smith Douglas, an attractive widow
The time for Netta's return arrives, and Jack persuades Mrs. Douglas to take care of Netta for a few days in order that he may have time to provide suitably for her. Jack neglects to tell Mrs. Douglas that he is engaged to Netta Netta arrives, and instead of the forlorn little maid in black that Jack had parted with he sees a developed and beautiful woman and falls madly in love with her. Seeing how popular Netta is with the young men who pay her great attention, Jack has a mental struggle between love and a desire to be selfish. He finally decides to give Netta her freedom that she may marry a man of her own choosing and nearer her own age. He does this gently, not knowing that Netta is genuinely in love with him and always has been. She is heartbroken—but consents, thinking that Jack does not love her Netta seeks a secluded spot in a window seat and finds refuge in tears. Mrs. Douglas, who had grown fond of the girl and who is at heart a kindly woman, finds Netta comforts her and extra is her secret. She seeks out Jack and takes him to Netta, where they find their truth in the soft light of the moon. Whilst Mrs. Douglas sees the undoubted affection draws the curtain gently that they may be alone

Maybe you think you've taken the thirty-umpf degree in pipe-smoking and know all there is to it. You're wrong! This wonderful tobacco puts a new slant on the proposition. You can't know the real fun in smoking a pipe till you've had a heart-to-heart session with Prince Albert. Every day before you try P. A. is a day's good smoking gone. Step into any tobacco store and say, right out loud: "Give me a tin of the national joy-smoke."

You won't surprise the storekeeper. He's hearing that more often than anything else. Prince Albert is now the fastest-selling pipe tobacco in the world. It gives you the fun of smoking all you want, often as you want, fast as you want, without a single hint of sting or rankness. Prince Albert can't bite your tongue. SOWING AND REAPING

IN regard to the Republican national convention, as George Ade says in Collier's: "It is all over. In other words, it has just begun. The Taft men have everything they want except electoral votes. Who cares for electoral votes? They have stopped Teddy."

A Taft trusty in Chicago spoke to his fellow delegates as follows: "We are here for just one purpose, and that is, to prevent Roosevelt getting any grip on this convention. . . . We would be fools if we issued a permit for our own massacre. No matter what happens this fall we will hang on to the organization." "After us the deluge" appeared to be the sentiment of the Taft delegates at Chicago. However, they expected a gentle rain instead of a flood. They thought that their gum shoes would keep them from getting wet feet. They will discover that the deluge is a real one. Compromise life-preservers are not going to be handed out. They will have to swim. The Republican elephant is a mighty beast, but he can't swim with the Taft millstone about his neck.

Juggle the 561 votes that nominated Taft in any way you please, analyze them in every possible manner, there is but one conclusion: the 561 votes are votes of weakness and not votes of strength.

The following is a list of TAFT VOTE states and dependencies: A SIGN OF the majority of whose delegates voted to nominate Taft in Chicago and which did not give Mr. Taft a single electoral vote in 1908:

State	Rep. Elect.	Dem. Elect.	Prob. Elect.
Arkansas	11	1	0
California	12	0	0
Kentucky	12	0	0
Louisiana	12	0	0
Mississippi	12	0	0
Nebraska	12	0	0
New Mexico	12	0	0
North Carolina	12	0	0
Virginia	12	0	0
Washington	12	0	0
West Virginia	12	0	0
Wisconsin	12	0	0
Wyoming	12	0	0
District of Columbia	3	0	0
Hawaii	6	0	0
Philippines	0	0	0

This table shows that 277 out of the 561 votes which nominated Taft were from states and dependencies which he commanded in the convention but which will not help him in the election. Moreover, Mr. Taft received the votes of seven delegates from the states of Nebraska (2), North Carolina (4), and Oklahoma (4), which went Democratic in 1908, making his nominating vote of 288 from territory non-productive in the sense of producing Republican electors, especially Taft electors. From this same territory the anti-Taft strength in the convention was but 69.

Keep this in mind: ONE-HALF OF THE VOTE THAT NOMINATED MR. TAFT REPRESENTED TERRITORY THAT WILL NOT GIVE HIM ONE ELECTORAL VOTE.

IT IS CERTAIN THAT MR. TAFT WILL NOT CARRY A SINGLE STATE THAT HE DID NOT CARRY IN 1908.

IT IS DOUBTFUL IF MR. TAFT CAN CARRY A SINGLE STATE THAT HE CARRIED IN 1908.

COLLECT THE PENALTY

THE paving contract signed September 29, 1911, stipulated that the paving was to be completed nine and one-half months after date and that a penalty of $50 per day was to be paid to the City for every day which the contract remained unfulfilled. The City Clerk reckons that, under the contract, the paving should have been completed yesterday, July 12. Consequently, beginning with today the city of Colorado Springs should receive an income of $50 per day.

der the contract, the paving should have been completed yesterday, July 12. Consequently, beginning with today the city of Colorado Springs should receive an income of $50 per day.

The condition of the streets at the present time makes it extremely difficult for the tourist who comes to this City by automobile to find his way from any portion of the City to another portion, as the regular thoroughfares are blocked. "Since the City and its guests suffer in the inconvenience for no fault of their own there is no reason why the paving company should be released from its obligation.

The penalty should be collected. It was the object of the City in making the contract to have the paving completed before the rush of the tourist season. The first delay was in the failure of the paving company to get the concrete mixer here on time; other delays were caused by the break-down of machinery. The weather has been good and cannot be blamed for a delay of more than a few days. The City officials will be expected by the citizens to enforce the provisions of the contract.

TRIM YOUR TREES

ONE evening this spring a resident of Colorado Springs was walking home proudly erect with a new straw hat. A vicious low-hanging branch swept the new acquirement into the mud. Curses!

The Ministers Association of the City has been carrying on an active campaign for a Sunday observance law. They are presumably also interested in stamping out profanity in our fair City. Why not cut the low-hanging, cowardly branches that hit you and then make their escape? Our tall citizens would then have one less cause for breaking the Second Commandment.

THE BEST HOLE.

From the New York Evening Post.
To speak of the best golf hole in the world is very much like referring to the best book—there are too many to choose from. The Post-Mall Gazette gives one his choice of some fifty thousand, among which are more than a few that are confidently pronounced to be the best by various disinterested golf experts. One such hole, however, has the distinction of being acknowledged generally to be the finest "blind" hole in existence. It is the Alps hole at Prestwick. There, in a famous match, one competitor played a great shot out of water, and his opponent capped it with a splendid niblick from the sand. One "heat" long hole is the Hole of Cross at St. Andrews, where two superlatively fine shots are required to reach the green without encountering "Waldenshaw's grave." At another place, "the player" must carry a terrific bunker, and drop the ball on the green so that it will not scuttle into the bunker at the back. The player who accomplishes this, comments the writer in the Gazette, is apt to vote this hole the best, while he who fails may call it the worst. Here is the philosophy of good and bad holes, books, and all else. The best name is that at which we can best win. The sound rules are those which help us. The only honest delegates—but we are getting into politics.

OPEN-AIR SCHOOLS A BOON TO CHILDREN.
From the New York American.
The success of the open-air school has been established in Los Angeles, where 49 of such institutions are in operation, and more are contemplated by the authorities.

Los Angeles now has the largest number of outdoor institutions of this kind of any city in the world, and the assistant superintendent of education, who has the work in charge, declares that the results speak for themselves.

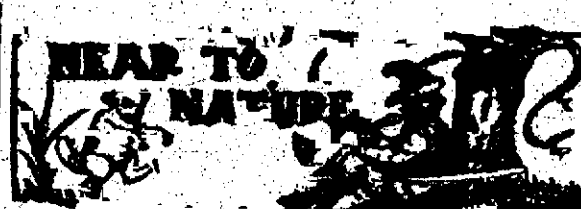

While the climate of southern California is peculiarly adapted for open-air study, yet the experiment tried in the eastern states has brought most satisfactory results, even when the children sat wrapped up in winter. It is a doctrine of common sense that a child breathing pure air can do more and better work than when in a room where the best ventilating measures cannot keep the atmosphere clean.

Perhaps it is not too much to say that school houses in a few generations will be relics of the past.

From the New York Tribune.
The principle in the life of individuals, whether they be prize fighters, authors or prophets, that once they have passed their best they cannot repeat or come back level with their former power or achievement seems to be reversed in the case of nations, though it has been customary to regard some of the nations of Europe as having survived their greatness, as if the course of empire on its westward way had touched them in sequence and then passed on to fresher soil and younger peoples, never to return. Evidences are now cropping up among the supposed lifeless or exhausted nations of Europe and Asia to prove that when decadence has overtaken an old civilization it is not as if from its very decay, as in the lower orders of nature, a rich soil were created out of which should spring, in due season, the vital seeds of regeneration.

Italy is a case in point. France is another, and even Spain is beginning to show unmistakable symptoms of a renaissance. And this is not all. For several decades Europe, as it looked toward Asia, has comforted itself with the thought, so aptly phrased by Matthew Arnold, that "the east bowed low before the blast in patient, deep disdain. She let the legions thunder past, then turned to thought again." But the east no longer bows. Japan came up with a rush out of a dead past to take her place in the front rank of modern nations, and China, asleep for a thousand years in a gentle decay, has astonished the world by the quickest awakening in history.

CONSIDERABLE SEER.
From the Parker (S. D.) New Era.
The grand old Republican ship is sailing a rough and rocky coast. No party has done so much for this nation as the Republican party and millions of its adherents hope that its future may be as useful to the country as its past. We shall see what we shall see.

From the Christian County Republican.
A young woman entered a store a short time ago and asked the clerk whether he had "any of those elastic bands, capable of being elongated and adjusted at pleasure, and used by the feminine portion of mankind for putting around the lower extremities of the locomotive members to keep in the proper position and altitude habiliments of their tibias."

A good deal of effort is required, I imagine, for an old man to be an optimist.

Probably the doctors in your town are a poor lot; but when you become very ill, they must pull you through, if you get through.

The victory in which you take much pride often costs more than it is worth.

People have a way of pronouncing the word "trust" which makes it sound as bad as "scoundrel."

There is one unsatisfactory thing about liberty: we never get enough of it.

Magazine writing would be more generally liked were it not so prominently labeled as smart and brilliant. People know a magazine article is read by a critical board of editors before acceptance; therefore the people can't resist the temptation to say: "I don't think it is as wonderfully good."

Dangerous Atmospheres

By RUTH CAMERON.

A wise young school ma'am recently refused the opportunity to lodge in one of the finest houses in the town in which she taught.

The opportunity came to her in this way. The house was owned by a young couple who were very well-to-do. The husband's business kept him away much of the time and the wife was lonesome. She didn't exactly want a hired companion, and having met and admired the young school teacher, conceived the idea of offering her a room in her beautiful home at a most reasonable rate, feeling sure that she would jump at the opportunity.

The school teacher thanked her graciously, but much to everyone's surprise, declined the offer. Her friends were astonished. "Have you seen the house?" they questioned.

She had.

"And that beautiful front bedroom with the wonderful mahogany furniture, and the bay window and the rugs? My dear, they say those rugs cost at least a hundred dollars apiece."

She had seen all that.

"And yet, you are going to stay at Mrs. S.'s where you sleep in a white front bed and have mahogany furniture and cheap rugs. Will you tell us why? Don't you like Mrs. R.?" (the wealthy young woman.)

"Of course I do," retorted the school ma'am, "and I know the house is lovely, and I appreciate the thought it is just as much as you do. It's simply because it's too lovely that I don't want to live in it. I'm afraid of the atmosphere."

"What do I mean by that? Just what I say. I'm afraid of the atmosphere. Mrs. R. has all the money she wants, and all the things I love, she dresses beautifully, and she sets a standard that I couldn't live up to. I would probably try, and I'd spend more money than I ought, and be disappointed in the end. If I stay where I am I will be with my own kind of people, and I won't be tempted to spend more than I should, and I think that I'll be happier in the end."

Don't you think the little school ma'am emphatically deserves the adjective I gave her in the first line?

Camp Fire Notes

The Camp Fire of the Blue Bird has much to remember in recalling the meeting of June 29, held in Cascade canon. With frying pan slung across shoulders, and baskets of camp fire edibles well packed, the girls tramped up Ute Pass, arriving at Cascade at 10:30, when one of the most important meetings of the year was held. A conference was in session, a meeting at which the workers of the Y. W. C. A. in many lands and among many peoples. This meeting the Camp Fire attended in a body, and at the close was recognized by the presiding officer and given a salute by all in attendance—girls from Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Arizona and New Mexico.

This camp fire is the first to be organized in this, the west central territory.

At each meeting one girl acts as secretary, and one as the succeeding week the girls plan the camp fire emblem of the Camp Fire membership.

At the close of a camp-fire year, the pin is to be awarded to the girl who has written the best report.

Following is a report of this Cascade meeting, written by Miss May Goss, worked out in the rhythm of "Hiawatha."

Report in Song.

In that place up in the mountains in the little town of Cascade. Where resides the Big Chief Heizer—Heizer of the tribe—He who gave us pie and pickles. There away up in the canon, Met the Camp Fire of the Blue Bird. On that day we heard the Squaws speak.

Heard them tell their tales of wonder, Heard them talk of far-off nations, Of the Chinese and the Hindus, Heard them talk of great big cities, Of the work that they are doing.

And up in that pretty canon, There around a blazing camp fire, Over which we cooked our dinner, We initiated Florence, She the only one among us—She who took her oath from memory. We were honored by the presence Of the squaw we call McCulloch, And another squaw we call Moore.

After all our lunch was eaten We again came to the wigwam, To the wigwam called Ramona. There we heard about the Camp Fire, Of the hours of the Camp Fire, And how each one may receive them.

And then, as the sun was setting, We pursued our homeward journey, In the twilight we started on, In the canon known as Hurricane, All the Blue Birds ate their supper, Then again we started homeward.

When the twilight was descending Then we heard a startling story. We were soon to lose our guardian, Soon to lose our faithful guardian. There was wailing, there was crying, Who would guard us in the meantime? While still pondering o'er this question.

Down in Manitou we parted, Each one parted from the others. Every one agreed to come there, To the wigwam called Ramona. To the wigwam of the Rupp's.

Ceremonial Meeting.
Next Thursday, July 18, the first ceremonial meeting of the Colorado Springs Camp Fire will be held in North Cheyenne canon. Members of the three camp fires will be in attendance—the Camp Fire of the Blue Bird, the Camp Fire of Wittenbach the Robin, and the Camp Fire of the Four Leaf Clover. In addition, any girl who plans to join the organization is invited to be there, the only provision being that she bring a tin cup and enough bread and butter for herself. Each member attending will bring these two articles.

The girls are asked to meet at the pavilion at the end of the canon car line at 2:30 on Thursday. From there they will march to the camp fire site.

Guardians and assistants will be with the girls for the afternoon, and as a site will be selected near the pavilion, every member ought to be able to come to this ceremonial meeting.

There will be some interesting things in the order, and head honors will be awarded to lucky members.

Mrs. Arthur Brigham will give the Camp Fire talk about birds and the study of their habits and habits.

Each Camp Fire will have a share in the ceremony, and full attendance is desired.

THE HASKIN LETTER

AMERICA'S GREAT ENDOWMENTS
IV—THE ROCKEFELLER INSTITUTE OF MEDICAL RESEARCH

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Seldom has it been given to any one organization to produce more in the way of direct results for the welfare of mankind than has been the fortune of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research. With its personnel made up of men who represent the highest type of investigators in the realm of experimental medicine, the first 11 years of its existence have been prolific of many discoveries that have lent aid in the world-wide fight against disease and death.

Standing out foremost among the results achieved is the discovery by Dr. Simon Flexner of an antimeasles serum. Where the mortality in measles, girls once was 75 per cent, today the odds are reversed—the patient has 75 chances to recover to 25 chances of dying. The serum which has wrought this change and has resulted practically in the banishment of the epidemic form of this most horrible of diseases, was first made at the Rockefeller Institute.

In the winter of 1904-5 there was an epidemic of meningitis in New York with a record of 3,455 deaths in 8,155 cases. The germ of the disease already had been discovered by a German bacteriologist, but no one knew how to check its ravages on the inoculated human system. It was further known that it lives in the white cells of the fluid that bathes the base of the brain and a portion of the spinal column.

At this juncture Dr. Simon Flexner took up the work of trying to find a remedy for what seemed an incurable disease. He began his search by making a series of experiments on small animals. He injected the germs into the abdomens of the "little creatures," some of whom died, but the majority of whom, after being sick for a short time, recovered their usual health. Then he undertook a new line of experiments. He injected some of the serum into the spine of a monkey. The little fellow died as much a martyr to science as ever a hero was to his country. Then it was tried on guinea pigs, and half of them were given the serum and the other half were not. Those which were inoculated and then treated with the serum recovered. Those which were not treated with the serum died. Then it was again tried on monkeys, the serum administered being taken from a goat. This experiment failed.

Not Daunted by Failures.
But Dr. Flexner was too firm in his theories to be daunted by this failure. He next inoculated other monkeys and treated them with the serum taken from monkeys. Those which were so treated recovered, while those which were not died. The experiments were carried far enough to demonstrate beyond the peradventure of a doubt, that the serum is efficacious, especially when applied in the early stages of the disease. In these experiments about 25 monkeys, and a hundred guinea pigs died that thousands of children might be saved.

The honor of having first administered the antimeasles serum to a human being belongs to Dr. L. W. Ladd of Ohio. There was an outbreak of the disease in a small town near Cleveland, and he found patients who were willing to try it. Recovery followed in many cases that the treatment soon sprang into favor everywhere, and now every country in the civilized world uses it. The discovery is entitled to go down in history with yellow fever, diphtheria antitoxin and other great discoveries of the past century and a quarter.

Another discovery of the Institute is the fact that magnetism injected intravenously will often relieve lockjaw where every other known curative agent fails. Even where the antitoxin serum treatment fails this will often give relief to the sufferer and serve to restore him to health. A new method of administering anesthetics to people with weak hearts has been found that will permit thousands to undergo operations who could not before seek the surgeon's skill. A method of blood-vessel suture brought out by the Institute has been accepted by the entire medical world.

Many other discoveries have proven successful in the laboratory, and only await trial clinically before they can be used generally by the medical world. One of these is a method of transplanting a section of a blood vessel, just as a plumber might cut out a section of pipe broken by freezing, and replace it with a good piece, so the surgeons have cut out sections of blood vessels and substituted others for them. Thousands of lives may yet be saved by such treatment.

Some Remarkable Experiments.
Another most remarkable laboratory demonstration is the transplantation of organs of the body. The kidneys of a number of small animals were taken out and others substituted for them, the operations proving remarkably successful. The value of this discovery may prove of inestimable benefit to the human race. While the death rate of the civilized world with respect to contagious and infectious diseases has undergone a remarkable decline, on the other hand those diseases which are chronic and come from overwork and the pace that kills have been increasing at an alarming rate. If kidney diseases may be overcome by transplantation an inestimable benefit will have been conferred on the human race by the discovery. The possibilities of such experiments are almost boundless.

A dozen other equally potential discoveries have been learned in the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute. Each of these new discoveries is being tested in every way that the ingenuity of the man of research who takes nothing for granted can devise; and many of them promise to aid the cause of healing both directly and indirectly. Not only are these experiments directed to finding out things that may be used by the physician, but some have not been applied, but will give much promise of successful application in both large and important. Perhaps the most interesting of the contributions relates to cancer. For years and years various theories of the origin of this dreadful disease have been put forth, but for a long time the theory that it is a germ disease was denied. It was claimed by some that it might be due to the displacement of tissue in the embryo and the consequent postponement of its growth until adult life was reached. Other theories were advanced, but no facts were known to justify its being regarded as a parasitic disease. But the experiments in the Institute, tend to the conclusion that it is caused by a germ that is transmissible. Should this germ be discovered and a curative serum devised, tens of thousands of cases of terrible suffering might be terminated.

Preserve Living Animal Tissues.
The preservation of living animal tissue outside of the body is another wonderful work performed in the Institute laboratories, and it is a fundamental discovery out of which dozens of other almost certainly will come. It makes possible a study of the laws of tissue growth that would otherwise be out of the question; it may lead new ideas in organ transplantation and in the rapid healing of surgical wounds. Skin may be taken from fresh cadavers, kept for several weeks and then be used in the treatment of ulcers. It has been shown that tissue taken from the human body has a great acceleration of growth after two months in the test tube, and that it is the washing away of poisonous waste products in addition to supplying nutrition. Here again the possibilities are so great that their mere statement would cause the utmost incredulity. If a little piece of tissue can be preserved, why not a leg or an arm?

The Rockefeller Institute is not selfish organization wishing to monopolize all credit for medical progress. This country has many great scientists who operate with all the other big research institutions of the country, but just as rapidly as it is able to work out of single theory it publishes the results. Its official organ, the Journal of Experimental Medicine, and gives the entire research world full opportunity to utilize every particle of its work. Repeating superstructures of their own will not wait for instance, until they have found the germ of cancer before announcing its conclusion that the disease is parasitic. Rather it immediately announces its conclusions, and the grounds upon which they are based. And invites the scientific world to join it in the still hunt for the dreaded bacillus that has caused so much human misery and mortality.

In addition to its Journal of Experimental Medicine, the Rockefeller Institute frequently publishes monographs upon vital subjects with which it is dealing. For instance, one monograph contained a study of tumors in animals. One paper of this monograph was devoted to the study of a transplantable rat tumor, another to the study of the biology of a mixed tumor of a rat; another to experiments on the induction of radium bromide on rat tumors; another upon spontaneous tumors of a mouse; and the final one on the transplantation of a human tumor in a rhesus monkey.

(Tomorrow Mr. Haskin will tell about the work of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the administration of the Carnegie pension fund for teachers.)

will be the fifth of the 12 daily letters in which Mr. Haskin is treating "America's Great Endowments.")
